Pornography battle moves to state level

By Doug Hampton
Montana Kaimin Reporter

Members of the Montana America Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) will plan strategy to oppose a proposed statewide ban on obscenity in a meeting Saturday at Great Falls.

Alfred Redmond, a Missoula pastor supporting the ban, said Tuesday a group of Montana pastors and legislators plan to draft a proposal to ban depictions or descriptions of "hard-core sexual conduct." The statement will be proposed to the 1975 state legislature.

Redmond said the proposal defines "hard-core sexual conduct" as:

- Any touching of the sexual or other intimate parts of another person.
- Masturbation, excretory functions, or lewd exhibition of the genitals (including a nude female breast and a "discernably turgid" penis, even if covered).
- Actual or simulated penetration of the vulva, anus or mouth of one person by another person's penis, "body parts or by any foreign object."
- The above actions with an animal.

Redmond said Tom Beers, deputy attorney general, drafted the bill at the request of Robert Woodahl, attorney general. He said the attorney general's office was requested to draft the bill by the group of legislators and pastors.

Redmond said he has "the highest hopes" the bill would pass the legislature.

Redmond worked previously for passage of the Missoula anti-obscenity ordinance, but said he thinks the state bill "is the important one."

Bob Campbell, Missoula ACLU lawyer, said the state proposal is "much more objectionable than the proposed city of Missoula ordinance." He said, as with the Missoula ordinance, a state bill would be costly and unenforceable.

Redmond said he "cannot see why" Montana would have to spend extra money to enforce the ban if law enforcement officials were interested in enforcing it. He said the bill should be given "top priority."

Campbell said a ban would violate the right to freedom of speech and expression written into the Montana constitution.

Redmond answered, "I happen to know that on hard-core pornography, we have the weakest law in all fifty states. That alone ought to be enough" reason for the bill's passage.

Redmond said pornography is detrimental to the community. He said he developed his views on obscenity when he was a youth counselor.

Campbell derided the obscenity ban, saying "this is the same type of bill that was laughed out of the Senate Judiciary Committee last year."

However, Alderman Fred Thomson, who actively supported the Missoula anti-obscenity ordinance, agreed with Redmond that pornography contributes to the deterioration of society.

However, he said Tuesday he was opposed to a statewide ban on obscenity.

Communities should decide for themselves whether or not to ban obscenity, he said. Such actions would allow them to accurately determine "contemporary community standards," he said.

In Nashville, attorney Aubrey Harwell, Neal's former law partner, said there is "absolutely no truth to the rumor" that Neal plans to run for political office.

In the instances of false impressions from Nixon, Ehrlichman cited a June 23, 1972, meeting where Nixon and H. R. Haldeman discussed diverting the FBI investigation, and a March 1973 meeting when White House counsel John Dean told Nixon about a cancer on the presidency. Ehrlichman said that Nixon got "impressions from Mr. Dean that he did not impart to me."

Ehrlichman also said at a March 22, 1973, meeting with Nixon, John Mitchell and Haldeman he thought full disclosure had been agreed on. But, he said, "what I thought we had agreed on in principle . . . in fact was opposite."

Crows sign record coal pact assuring highest royalties

Billings

AP

The Crow Indian Tribe has signed a contract that will assure it of receiving the highest coal royalties currently paid in America.

The pact was signed by tribal officials and Westmoreland Resources after receiving approval from Interior Secretary Rogers Morton.

The Crows received a $1.7 million check from Westmoreland as a down payment. Pemberton Hutchinson, Westmoreland president, said the agreement was revolutionary. "It makes the Crows the best-paid owners of coal in America."

The document was signed Monday and the first checks to the 5,771 tribe members were mailed late Tuesday.

Among other things, the agreement gives the Crows the right to veto sale of coal to a company that would use it in a gasification plant within 50 miles of the southeastern Montana reservation. It also provides the tribe may buy the Sarpy Creek coal lands from Westmoreland after mining is completed, allowing the Crows to increase the size of the reservation.

The land overlaying the deposits had been owned by white ranchers since the tribe ceded it to the government near the turn of the century.

The agreement provides royalties of 40 cents a ton or 8 per cent of the market value of the coal. Royalties are linked to the market value, and current prices have pushed the figure to 44 cents a ton already.

"We spent a traumatic year when the Crows sought to invalidate our coal leases," Hutchinson said. "We volunteered to renegotiate. The new agreement has been ratified by the tribe and all concerned are happy with it."

Action on student wage increase delayed again

By Steve Corrick

Montana Kaimin Reporter

A final decision on the student Food Service employees' request for a pay increase will be delayed until Jan. 25, according to J. A. (Del) Brown, student services director.

Brown stated yesterday in a memo the increase would cost the Food Service $29,177 but added it is only one of three increases facing the University auxiliaries, of which the Food Service is a part. The total cost increase could be $155,336, he said.

Janet Lapayowker, one of the representatives for the student employees, said she was annoyed by the decision to delay the decision.

"The thing that makes us mad is that we've been told that there would be a definite decision three times and then it has been put off each time," she said.

"I realize the financial problems but the real question is whether or not they're willing to pay people what they're worth," Lapayowker said. "The Food Service is paying their regular staff more than minimum wage and we're doing the same work as they are."

In the memo sent to Ray Chapman, director of the University Center, Brown stated, "We are all in agreement that the request to pay the minimum wage of $2.00 per hour as opposed to the $1.70 . . . is desirable and reasonable. We wish to pay the $2.00 as soon as it is financially possible."

Brown explained the $1.70 per hour wage student employees presently receive is authorized by an exception in the present federal Minimum Wage Law which states student employees of any university may be paid $1.70 per hour instead of $2.00.

Brown said the decision has been delayed until Jan. 25 because the auxiliaries are financed by student fees paid for the bond issue and for use of the residence halls and the Food Service.

Brown said the directors of the auxiliaries are afraid there may be a larger enrollment drop than expected next quarter which would reduce the amount of money available to meet the cost increases.

He said by Jan. 25 the total student fees for Winter Quarter should be known and it will be easier then to determine if the wage increase request can be met.

Correction

The Montana Kaimin incorrectly reported yesterday a faculty member cannot be fired until he or she has spent seven years on probation. A faculty member can be fired at any time for adequate cause, as long as due process is followed, and the by-laws of the Board of Regents are adhered to.

SOME MIGHT ARGUE the above photograph would be the closest anyone could come to pornographic display if a state ban on pornography and obscenity is adopted by the state legislature. (Montana Kaimin photo by Tom Levno)

ComesLast approved for Central Board post

Dayle ComesLast, junior in sociology, was approved at last night's Central Board (CB) meeting as CB representative for married student housing.

ComesLast's approval followed the board's third rejection of an appointment of Jerald Clyde, junior in pre-medical sciences, to the position. CB members disapproved of Clyde's appointment on the grounds women were not adequately considered for the position.

The Board voted to recommend to UM President Richard Bowers that the $175,000 settlement to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for misuse of work-study funds, be paid immediately.

The board recommended the money be taken as a loan from UM building fees, parking fees or from the University Foundation, an alumni fund-raising organization. The loan would be repaid within five years.

The board also voted to recommend to Bowers that the University records system, in compliance with the Buckley Amendment, allow faculty and administrators access to student records only with the student's written approval.

The board moved into executive session to discuss a libel suit filed against Montana Kaimin Editor Carey Matovich Yunker, the Kaimin, ASUM, Publications Board and the State of Montana. Personell problems concerning the student pre-paid legal services plans also were to be discussed.

Ehrlichman says Nixon deceived him

Washington

John Ehrlichman testified Wednesday that "in at least four major instances" he was deceived through false impressions given him by former President Richard Nixon.

Ehrlichman insisted "time after time" he advocated full disclosure of what was known about the Watergate break-in and aftermath.

He said, "The fact is, as I look back and I add it all up, I knew pitifully little about the matter . . ."

Ehrlichman's statement came near the end of a long day of heated cross-examination at the Watergate coverup trial.

Prosecutor James Neal, who shot question after question at Ehrlichman, reminded him his lawyer had said Nixon "deceived, misled, and lied to you."

Neal said, "You are saying that you were only a silent listener, that's basically your testimony, isn't it, Mr. Ehrlichman?"

Ehrlichman replied: "When I listened to the tapes it was clear to me that in at least four major instances the impressions given to me by the former president were false."

Earlier, Ehrlichman admitted he didn't tell all he knew about Watergate to the FBI, the grand jury, and even his colleagues in the Nixon administration.

Ehrlichman's cross-examination brought the sharpest clash yet at the trial.

Ehrlichman's lawyer, William Frates, accused Neal of grandstanding before audience and press because he wanted to run for political office in his native Tennessee. Neal called the remarks "despicable."

MITCHELL COSTLY

My, my. Prices sure are rising. Sugar is up, sure. So is raisin bread. But has anyone noticed the amazing increase in the cost of keeping a George Mitchell® around?

Time was when keeping a George Mitchell® ran a flat $25,000 or so a year. Nowadays they cost about $26,000, but that is only the tip of the iceberg.

In 1972, the University of Montana's George Mitchell®, who is a lawyer, had a difficult time interpreting the rules and regs regarding work-study money, according to UM President Richard Bowers. The result was that the price of our George Mitchell® shot up from $26,000 this year to $201,000—representing the $175,000 UM must pay back to the federal work-study program.

A hefty increase indeed. Unfortunately the price went even higher. The total reached $366,000 when our George Mitchell® approved the purchase of a house for Bowers that cost $115,000 plus about $50,000 for repairs.

$150,820 was spent on the mall between the University Center and the Library with the approval of our George Mitchell®. For the same money, the University could have built six $25,000 houses, each on its own 100' x 150' lot (included at no charge) with $820 left over to buy pedigreed Cocker Spaniels for the six families living in the houses. Total cost this year for our George Mitchell® so far: $516,820.

Finally, another fallout of the George Mitchell® difficulty with the work-study rules and regs. The University paid out $45,831.88 in legal fees to UM officials dragged into court because of the difficulty—$9,209.67 for the defense of UM's George Mitchell® alone. Thus this year's grand total cost for the University's George Mitchell® is $562,651.88.

Rumor has it that our George Mitchell® is going to be transferred to the School of Business. That's nice. Question is—can they afford him?

MSL conducting poll

Editor: The Montana Student Lobby (MSL) invites your help.

The MSL organized in 1972 with a student lobbying effort at the Constitutional Convention. For the last two legislative sessions the MSL (members—University of Montana and Montana State University) has worked for such legislation as privacy in the dorms, permanent establishment of legislative interns and alcohol in the dorms. This year the lobby will be stronger with the addition of Eastern Montana College as a member. The UM legislative committee to the MSL is conducting a poll to find out how you, the students, feel on general issues important to this session's lobbying effort. The survey asks you to rank the priority as well as provide opinions on issues such as Colstrip 3 and 4, state-funded athletics, collective bargaining and a Women's Studies Program at the University of Montana.

There is also space for additional comments. At the beginning of Winter Quarter, a more specific survey will be conducted based on the results of this general poll. If you would like to be contacted again for that poll there is space for your name and address. Finally, we'll be asking for your help later in the session in letter-writing campaigns to your hometown legislators on issues concerning UM.

Surveys may be picked up today in the UC Mall and the UC Lounge. We ask that you return the survey to the polling places or ASUM by 5 p.m. tomorrow.

This is a chance for you to let us know your opinions on issues that will affect you as a student—UM budget, athletics and women's studies—and as a citizen of Montana—coal mining and tenant-landlord legislation.

We need your help make the lobbying effort as successful as it has been in the past.

Christmas gift list suggested by 2 CB delegates

Editor: We think it is only proper and fitting to wish everyone—and we sincerely mean everyone—the very merriest and happiest of holiday seasons.

We don't feel we have to remind you "you'd better watch out" because Santa knows "who's been naughty and nice," but we do hope Santa brings everyone what they justly deserve. His Christmas list just might include:

- for Tom Stockburger, one large Missoula/Helena hitchhiking sign, good during legislative season only.

- for Lynne Huffman, a copy of Dale Carnegie's How to Win Friends and Influence People.

- for Publications Board, one very large bottle of Sominex, in appreciation of what Pub Board hearings have done for us all.

- for Central Board, one elephant (to make the circus complete).

- for Carey and Conrad Yunker, the new home edition of the popular TV game show, "To Tell the Truth."

May John Wicks be blessed with a nose redder than Rudolph's on Christmas Eve. And may the Ghost of Christmas Future honor Jack Swarthout with his presence.

Unfortunately, some of our friends will probably not get what they deserve. But then, it's the thought that counts.

Writer defends United Nations

Editor: The editorial comments of Michael Sol re/ the failures of the United Nations really come more under the heading of a diatribe than an editorial. He was obviously in a condition of heated up anger when he wrote the comments, mainly because he is disgusted with the way in which the UN has treated the state of Israel. It surely is Sol's privilege to feel that way about it—but when in essence he says that the Arabs are the only ones who have committed individual acts of terror, he is simply wrong! Murder and revenge have, also, been part-and-parcel of the weaponry of the state of Israel.

More to the point, however, is Mr. Sol's open and unequivocal attack on the UN ally across the board. This is most unfortunate! While many of us are indeed disappointed in the UN, we are not ready to give up on it. While we admit that the UN isn't "all that great," we do nonetheless believe that it is virtually the only instrument in the realm of international relations which can save us from chaos and anarchy.

YWCA gets funds, not United Givers

Editor: I had previously intended to double my last year's contribution to United Givers but I have now decided to follow advice of the local Right-to-Life chapter. I will not give any funds to United Givers but instead will give twice the amount to the YWCA for its help in providing all women of Missoula with complete family planning services.

UM heating costs may rise 100%

J. A. (Ted) Parker, director of the University of Montana Physical Plant, said Monday the campus may be facing a 100 per cent increase in the cost of the natural gas used to heat campus buildings.

Parker said he became alarmed when the average cost of one unit of natural gas rose 16 cents from 59 cents in August to 75 cents in September.

"With that 16-cent increase in September, it means that some of the facilities may have a 100 per cent fuel cost increase from last year," Parker said.

Parker explained the increase came on the heels of other increases this fiscal year, beginning in July. The 16-cent increase was not solely responsible for the 100 per cent increase in gas costs at UM, although it is the largest increase by the Montana Power Company to date.

He said that the natural gas cost for last September was $4,424.40, while the cost this September was $7,443.00. He said that costs were for similar amounts of gas.

Parker said there may be still more increases this year. "We're sitting at the mercy of the Canadian market. If the Canadians raise their prices, then we can expect Montana Power to pass the increase on to their customers," Parker said.

According to Parker, it is possible the Canadians will raise their prices in January and the resulting increase in gas costs will mean the University will be paying over $1 for a unit of natural gas.

Vietnamese seeking political asylum

CPS
Seven South Vietnamese students studying in the United States whose passports expired, have sought political asylum in this country.

The students, who are in the process of being deported, are outspoken critics of the Thieu military regime and feel certain they will be imprisoned and tortured if forced to return to South Vietnam.

The students have requested asylum according to a section of the United Nations Convention on Refugees which states, "No contracting state shall expel or return a refugee where his life or freedom would be threatened on account of ... political opinion."

Their defense rests on contention that South Vietnamese still don't have free elections, freedom of speech or press, the right to congregate and other democratic processes guaranteed by the Paris Peace Agreement.

California students protest against Marine recruiters

CPS
150 students demonstrated peacefully against Marine recruiters at Stanford University in California late last month.

The protesters formed picket lines in front of the building and chanted slogans throughout the day. The recruiters, however, were not prevented from entering the building. Only two students were interviewed, both of whom crossed the protesters' picket line.

"There seems to be a resurgence this fall of student protest against recruiting," observed Lt. Robert Grice, one of the recruiters.

New gardener finds orphan cactus

The orphan's note said, "Take me, I'm yours," so Eugene Beckes took the founding cactus home where he could nurse it back to health.

Beckes, the University Center gardener, said Monday that since plant thefts in the UC outnumber donations about ten to one, he was happy to find the orphan cactus which someone left in the UC planter after Thanksgiving.

Beckes became UC gardener Nov. 1 when Gary Bogue, director of UC programming, decided he did not have time to care for the plants in the UC. Bogue was in charge of the plants since he began working in the UC in Oct. 1972.

Beckes said four plants were stolen over Thanksgiving break alone.

Earlier this year a cement planter containing a philodendron was stolen, but was returned within a few days. A matching planter containing a Boston fern has since been stolen and not returned, Beckes said.

The recent art fair in the UC was hard on the plants, Beckes said. People sat on plants or displayed their pots among them. Beckes said the plants suffer whenever the UC mall is crowded.

Trash and mischief are constant problems, Beckes said. He cleans a lot of garbage out of the planters, but he can not stop people from damaging plants. He found that someone had uprooted an ivy plant this weekend.

"But most people appreciate the plants," he said. "I'm always being stopped by people who want to tell me how much they like all the plants."

Beckes is employed by UC maintenance. He said he works 20 to 25 hours a week, but will work full-time next spring when he will plant bulbs in the planters outside the UC. He is helped by three work-study students, but only one will continue Winter Quarter.

Beckes, who helped Bogue care for plants last Spring Quarter, suggested that persons who are moving consider donating their plants to the UC.

AP in brief

Northern Ireland's four main religious faiths opened their first joint campaign yesterday for peace in the troubled province where more than 1,000 people have died in sectarian violence since 1969. The peace appeal by leaders of the Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, Methodist and Episcopalian Churches provides for prayers to be said in all churches next Sunday.

Radio monitors said martial law was declared in Burma yesterday as violence flared in Rangoon after troops retook the remains of U Thant from dissident students. Thant was the United Nations Secretary-General between 1961 and 1971. Students and monks seized Thant's body when the regime, under the military dictatorship of President Ne Win, evidently intended to bury it in an ordinary cemetery.

The British pound dropped to its lowest value ever and the London stock market dropped to a 20-year low yesterday as oil exporting nations prepared to consider raising oil prices again.

WE HONOR MASTERCARD

Guthrie says state being ruined

A. B. Guthrie, Montana novelist and short story writer, told a journalism class yesterday that Montana was being "destroyed" by strip-mining, deforestation and other forms of exploitation.

Guthrie won the Pulitzer Prize in 1950 for distinguished fiction for his book The Big Sky.

Guthrie said he did not want to see any more out-of-staters come to Montana and that strict zoning laws had to be enforced in order to prevent exploitation of the environment by out-of-state interests.

Guthrie said he thinks Montanans are "coming alive" to the threat of environmental exploitation and that the young are Montana's last hope of preventing the state from being abused by over-production.

He said one of the reasons that Montana is heading towards ecological disaster is because many persons in the state are still inclined to operate under a pioneer code, whereby one can do whatever he wants with the land.

Guthrie said if man repaid his debts to nature, more jobs would still be available in the timber industry. He added that man has been a "parasite on mother earth, and is about to destroy his host."

Guthrie attributed many of the current environmental problems to Americans' emphasis on the importance of the "false god of growth." He said the only solution to over-population is to strive for zero population growth. Guthrie said he advocates birth control and abortion when it is requested.

Commenting on the recent efforts by the City Council to pass a local pornography ordinance, Guthrie said he distrusts "spokesmen for purity."

He said things such as pornography ordinances were "some people's feeble defenses against temptation." Guthrie added that he did not approve of material that is pornographic and obscene because it dulls a person's sensibilities.

Guthrie said he has little faith in chambers of commerce because "Their aims are usually well-intended, but when they get together, they're the biggest bunch of asses."

UM concert business still good

The national economic slowdown has not had a significant effect on Program Council's concert scheduling and attendance, Popular Concerts Co-ordinator, Dennis Burns, said yesterday.

Citing an article in Student Activities Programming, which stated concert business was off 25 to 50 per cent on a national basis, Burns said Program Council's business was off "a little." He said, however, that the sum was minimal because Program Council does not have as many concerts, or the same type of concerts as larger sponsors.

The programming article stated that an over-saturation of the market also contributes to the decrease in business. Burns said the over-saturation may work to Program Council's benefit by making bigger-name acts available to perform at UM.

In the past, sponsors have had an extremely difficult time getting agents to route big-name groups through the Northwest because the sparsely populated area is not a "big money" region, Burns said. The over-saturation of big-name groups in large cities will hopefully change the situation, he said.

Program Council has made every effort to keep ticket prices down, even though prices for the acts have inflated tremendously, Burns said.

Ticket prices have not reflected the rising costs of production because Program Council has been utilizing its profit margin, he said.

Prices have been kept down so attendance will not decrease, Burns said.

He said that even though the national market is off, Program Council is sponsoring approximately the same number of concerts this year as it did last year.

State attorneys vote to support laws decriminalizing marijuana

The Montana County Attorneys' Association voted at its meeting in Billings last weekend to support any legislation to decriminalize possession of small amounts of marijuana.

Missoula County Attorney Robert Deschamps, president of the state association, told the Montana Kaimin yesterday that the group had passed the following resolution: "We will support any legislation to reform or revise current marijuana laws."

Deschamps said the resolution was in response to a request by Missoula NORML (National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws) lawyer Robert Campbell that the association propose a bill to decriminalize possession of small amounts of marijuana to the 1975 state legislature.

Campbell proposed that possession of less than 60 grams (two ounces) of marijuana be made punishable by a small fine. Present Montana law provides for a fine of up to $1,000 and imprisonment for up to one year for the same offense.

As a compromise, possession of more than one pound would be considered "possession with intent" to sell and would be punishable by imprisonment from one year to life. Sale of marijuana is now punishable by up to five years imprisonment.

Campbell said yesterday he is willing to draft the proposed legislation, but does not yet know who will introduce the bill.

A similar bill was introduced in the House last year by Missoula Democrat George Turman, but it was defeated.
